

CONTACT FOR SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS OR TRAINING

Tony is available for speaking engagements on self-confidence. He also conducts training, at seminars or privately, on the processes displayed through this book.

An interesting fact established from research was that every business and trainer expected, or hoped, that one result of the training they provided was self-confidence.

However, another interesting observation, which was disclosed by executives, trainers and case managers, was that it was their most confident participants who easily accepted any training offered.

Therefore, why not teach self-confidence first?

That way participants would communicate better, sell better, be more motivated, be greater team players, be more disciplined, work more safely, resolve disputes amicably, and have better relationships at home and work.

That would assist individuals and businesses to save time and money on many forms of training, and leave participants with a lasting, positive self-image.

Who wouldn't want to feel good about themselves everyday?

To contact Tony for speaking engagements, or for information on seminars, training, audio CD's and further copies of this book go to www.TonyRichards.org